DEDICATION

As a measure of appreciation for their continued inspiration and guidance to the staff we dedicate this volume to the faculty advisers of the Serpentine, Miss Mary Clark, Miss Marion Farnham, and Mr. Clarence McKelvie.

For a number of years these three people have helped the Serpentine Staff to produce a book which each year has been a more complete record of the events cherished by every student while at college.

Mr. McKelvie has assisted with the entire book, but more specifically with the financial end. Every member of the editorial staff has sought the aid of Miss Clark, while valuable criticisms and suggestions for the art work have come from Miss Farnham. As a group these individuals have assisted in every phase of the planning and organizing of each year's Serpentine.

Miss Marion Farnham, Miss Mary E. Clark, Mr. Clarence L. McKelvie

IN RECOGNITION

No more familiar person can be found on campus than Dr. Robert F. Anderson, who has been connected with this school for a period of twenty-nine years. His able teaching in the Mathematics Department has played a large part in its fine achievements, and since he assumed the post of head, a fine tradition has been established.

If Dr. Anderson's service to the college were limited to his work as teacher of mathematics, that in itself would be noteworthy; but during these years spent here he also has contributed both his time and ability on many occasions. The Moore Literary Society has been one of the campus groups that has profited by his leadership. When the Philips Memorial Chapel was erected, he gave his loyal support in getting contributions; and it was he who was instrumental in starting the publication of the first yearbook.

In recognition of his faithful and farsighted services to this institution and as a symbol of sincere respect and affection, we take this opportunity to express our deepest appreciation to Dr. Robert F. Anderson.

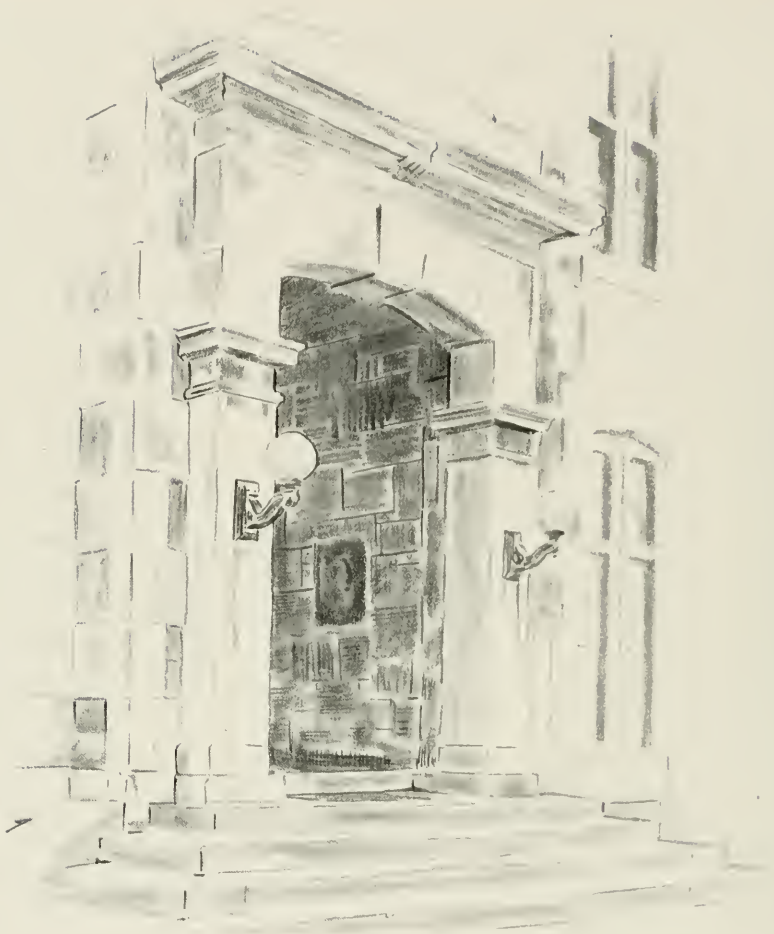

DR. ROBERT ANDERSON

Dr. Robert Anderson was born in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, April 11, 1866. Most of his early life was spent in this vicinity. He attended this institution, which at that time was the State Normal School; he was graduated in the class of 1890. Villanova College was the next institution of higher learning where Dr. Anderson studied. From this college he received his Bachelor of Arts Degree and two honorary degrees, Master of Arts and Doctor of Science.

From 1885 to 1888 he was teacher in the public schools of Pennsylvania. In 1890 he was in charge of the Department of English at the College of Commerce in Philadelphia. The following year Dr. Anderson was made principal of the public schools at Langford, Pennsylvania. In the fall of 1907 the State Normal here at West Chester secured Dr. Anderson as professor of mathematics. The next year he was made head of this department and has continued in this position until the present time.

Besides being a teacher Dr. Anderson is author and co-author of numerous books and pamphlets on mathematical subjects.

FOREWORD

Four years at college have not been just a period of preparation. They have been a definite part of our life. Each of these years has surpassed the preceding one in what it has meant to us in the way of experiences, appreciations, and friendships.

We have attempted to reconstruct all in the past year that will linger longest in our memories. The most realistic and interesting way in which to do this was to reproduce in pictures the activities as they occurred, to supplement the stories told by these scenes with written narrative that links past and present activities, and to complete the set-up by including the pictures of those individuals and groups who have contributed most to campus life.

The degree of success of our efforts will be measured by the amount of pleasure derived from the memories which this volume calls to mind.

HISTORICAL ABSTRACTS

To most of us it seems a far cry from the time when no excuse was accepted for missing breakfast to Dr. Anderson's popular morning "Kaffeeklatch" at the P. and G. But as times change, we find certain improvements necessary. This has been true ever since West Chester began its existence.

The college did not spring to its present status immediately. Contrarily, it traces its beginnings to the West Chester Academy in 1812. When students came here to prepare for teaching, the State began to grant money for part of their training.

In the Normal School days, a two-year course was offered. Before Dr. Philips became president, the only building—what is now the central portion of the women's dormitory—embodied everything. The first class was graduated in 1874. It totalled ten. Since that time the size of the graduating classes has increased remarkably until now more than two hundred students receive degrees each year.

A PAUSE AFTER A BUSY DAY

There is a lot to talk about and many people to see after dinner in the lobby.

HISTORICAL ABSTRACTS

Dr. Phillips, principal from 1881 to 1920, was a famous, well-liked educator. Most of the buildings were erected during his administration and much additional land was bought. Today we are rather surprised at some of his regulations. Smoking, dancing, and card playing were forbidden to all. No Sunday newspapers were permitted on the campus.

Were the men allowed to walk their ladies uptown? Indeed not! On Saturday the women could walk uptown in the morning and the men in the afternoon. The order was reversed each week. The limit for the women at most times was Union Street and the Episcopal Church. This beautiful building must have loomed like a prison wall before the ladies' eyes.

You understand—there were times when “the opposite sexes were privileged to mingle”. These two times were marked by the Moore Anniversary in the fall and the Aryan Reunion in the spring. In each case there was a social hour after the entertainment, and this was the only time to speak to that “heart’s desire”.

THE CENTER OF KNOWLEDGE

Sooner or later everyone becomes acquainted with the library.

HISTORICAL ABSTRACTS

However, we cannot pity our predecessors, because they did have an ice skating pond. The fair maiden in distress was assisted around the pond one time and only one time by a member of the stronger sex. There was always a scorekeeper at hand. (How about the timekeeper, you ask?) No matter. Miss McCarthy still maintains that these were the "good old days".

Wayne Hall was built in 1913 and took its name from Camp Wayne, which was used for recruiting purposes during the Civil War. Both men and women faculty members as well as students lived here.

The Library, Old Gymnasium, and Recitation Hall were built earlier. The principal made his home in Green Gables, which was located at the corner of High Street and College Avenue. It was not until nineteen hundred and thirty that the president's residence was changed to its present location on Rosedale Avenue.

THE PROFESSOR'S DREAM

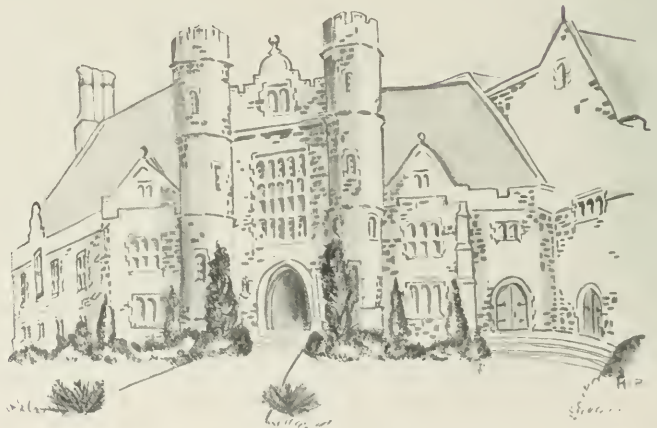

Nothing more to be desired—attention, interest, and enthusiasm.

HISTORICAL ABSTRACTS

Dr. Philips was succeeded by a man who served West Chester in more different capacities than anyone before or after his day. Dr. Smith was a student, teacher, vice-principal, principal, and the first president of West Chester. During his popular administration we became a Teachers College. The state's control became more centralized and the curriculum was made more uniform. The Philips Memorial Building was erected during his presidency on the former site of Green Gables.

Dr. Cameron became president in 1928 after the death of Dr. Smith. Under his guidance the College advanced rapidly in prestige. The Ehinger Gymnasium and the new athletic fields were mere outward manifestations of improvements.

Today, led by President Swope, who succeeded Dr. Cameron in the fall of 1935, we are striving for first class honors by using the past as a catalogue of successes and records to be surpassed.

ADMINISTRATORS AND FACULTY

It requires a keen imagination to visualize those past days when the duty of every faculty member was to see that the boys did not converse with any of the fairer sex; yet some of the instructors here remember those times of proctoring.

Many are our jokes at their expense, and many are the times when our sense of humor tries their patience to be good sports. But when we realize that they are human beings as well as educators, when we discover their human, fun-loving qualities, we learn to like and admire them as men and women. Even their titles and degrees fail to awe us completely.

It is the faculty members who instil in each student that desire to live a fuller life; it is they who help direct the ambition and thinking of each individual so that education may be more worthwhile. Through the efforts of all who have served here, there have developed many of the finest characters, friendships, and traditions which are written indelibly into the history of this college.

To the Members of the Graduating Class:

"What is the best education?" was asked of Plato centuries ago. His reply was significant: "It is that which gives to the body and the soul all the beauty and all the perfection of which they are capable."

Put beauty into your lives at every opportunity. Search for the secret charms of the sunset, the mountain, and the tree; train the eye to see beauty in every leaf and flower; listen for the melody in forest, field, and stream. Remember "the vision that you hold in your minds, the ideal that is enthroned in your hearts--this you will build your lives by; this you will become."

My wish is that "you will help to make the world a bit better and more beautiful because you have lived in it."

Cordially yours,

PRESIDENT CHARLES S. SWOPE

President Swope was born thirty-six years ago in Huntingdon County where he spent his childhood and early youth. After receiving his elementary education there, he matriculated at West Chester Normal School and then at Dickinson, from which institution he was graduated in 1925 with an A.B. degree.

He was supervisor of the grade work and head of the history department at the Pennington School for Boys. After serving as superintendent of schools at Everett, Pennsylvania, he accepted the call to join the faculty of the State Teachers College at West Chester. About eight years ago Mr. Swope married a former classmate. The following year he received his M.A. degree from the University of Pennsylvania, where he is now completing the requirements for his doctorate. His elevation to the Presidency of our College is just recognition of faithful work.

Winfield W. Menhennett, B.S., M.A.
Dean of Instruction

Greetings to the Class of 1936:

Today, as never before in the world's history, vital challenges are coming not only to the youth of our own nation but also to those of the world. Your training, your hopes and aspirations, your idealism and your courage are factors that will spur you on in the struggle for success.

As the last act in your college life draws to a close and you receive the rewards of graduation, you pass over to that great and worthy group of alumni of West Chester. Here you will find your name written among the names of the many who have achieved fame. Some day others may look back and find your name surrounded by the glory that comes to great and noble souls. Your college needs you in the future even more than she needed you in the past. You are a part of West Chester, and whatever West Chester becomes in the future will be, in part, due to you. We give you our blessings and good wishes. May your success be reflected in a greater West Chester.

Sincerely yours,

Psychology in practice

EDUCATION DEPARTMENT

There have been no comprehensive changes in the organization of work in the Education Department during the past year. However, three elective courses have been approved by the State Department and have been added to the curriculum; these are elementary education, character education, and clinical and abnormal psychology.

The college student receives his training in psychology, child study, and educational theory from a diverse group of well-trained instructors. Dr. Selzer, the head of this department, has been certified by the state as a public school psychologist with instructions to conduct a clinic here at the college and to render clinical aid to its service area. West Chester is one of the six teachers colleges in the state thus accredited.

For a number of years there have been no additions to the Education staff, but this year it is with a feeling of great sorrow that we omit from this page the name and picture of our beloved friend, Professor Arthur D. Cromwell, who passed away during this last summer.

ENGLISH DEPARTMENT

Our autographed collection

Twenty-five years ago there were only four teachers in the English Department; today there are ten. The number of courses has grown correspondingly, although the number which could be offered with advantage has not yet been reached.

Many of us have been guided by the English instructors, following the golden thread of literature down through the ages for the past four years. We have developed skill in the use of the mother tongue and have discovered an appreciation for literature that should open up the rich experiences which great books so freely offer.

In the day-by-day struggle with grammar, composition, and literature the benefits of English instruction are not always appreciated. However, true appreciation must be a matter of time and growth. The teaching staff, the curriculum, and the size of the student body, all have changed as the years have slipped away, but the hearty desire to do faithful, scholarly work remains unchanged. A true joy comes from the mastery of even a small part of our great English heritage.

FRENCH AND LATIN

Although courses in Latin and French have been included for a long time in the general curriculum of the college, within the last six years, under the direction of Dr. Staley and Miss Geyer, they have been developed so that they offer both specialization for teaching and rich content.

With this aim West Chester has increased her content courses to twenty-four semester hours of French and eighteen hours of Latin, exclusive of the required student teaching and beyond the high school preparation upon which these courses are built.

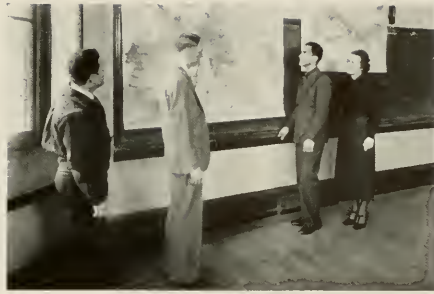

Both Dr. Staley and Miss Geyer have planned activities in this department so that the students may have additional experiences. From a shelf of a few text books the library facilities have grown until now they enable the students to prepare special projects, to correlate their work with English courses, to investigate modern trends in teaching, and to enrich their literary experiences by reading masterpieces not always included in class room discussion.

SOCIAL STUDIES DEPARTMENT

A European map study

A cheery "Good morning, everybody" introduces the West Chester student to the Department of Social Studies. Soon after this introduction the student realizes that this department is endeavoring to help him discover the meaning of history by interpreting for him the influence of historical events.

Whether it be in sociology, economics, or American government, the student feels that the instructors are sincere in their efforts to make the Social Studies work on this campus of some direct and immediate value. Present day events are linked repeatedly to past occurrences which have influenced them. Opinions are freely exchanged by pupils and instructors. Both groups derive benefits.

This department not only provides interesting classes for those students who have adopted Social Studies as their major field, but it also sponsors active club work in which modern social problems are discussed very informally. Thus this department attempts not only to depict the historical past but also to make present history a vital problem.

MATHEMATICS DEPARTMENT

No flare of bugles or startling announcement ever brings the Mathematics Department to our attention, and yet we are always aware of its presence and influence on campus. Compasses, protractors, transits, yardsticks, and graph paper as well as other mathematical tools beckon to the students in the secondary curriculum who adopt mathematics as one of their fields.

A complete study in mathematics is offered to these individuals. Introductory college courses in algebra form a basis for higher mathematics. Study progresses into trigonometry, solid and analytical geometry, surveying, and several teaching methods courses. All students of the elementary curriculum take several courses in this department. The purpose of these courses is to help develop successful teachers who have a keen knowledge of subject matter. Such preparation changes the teaching of arithmetic from a difficult, dreaded task to a pleasant, stimulating part of their work.

Under the guidance of the "group of three" who are teachers in this department, students develop skill both in teaching the various phases of this subject and in applying the acquired knowledge to their own needs.

ART AND VISUAL EDUCATION

Another medium of expression

No other classroom or laboratory in Recitation Hall is more attractive than the art studio. Here students draw, paint, and engage in many activities related to the appreciation of art.

There is no need to wonder about the work of the Art Department, for its activities are apparent in the posters which are always found on campus, in the decorations for important social events, and in the various exhibits which it sponsors.

Although the Visual Education Department is the most recent on campus, it is at the same time perhaps the most progressive. Each year its activity has increased until this year students are busy developing and enlarging snapshots, making lantern and photographic slides, and operating motion picture machines. Another added activity this year has consisted of photography work to be included in the 1936 Serpentine. A selected group of students carried out this project.

Mr. Sherman also attempts in his handwriting course to produce legible writers and students capable of teaching others how to write.

MUSIC EDUCATION

The Music Department wishes us to experience the gladness of music, and we do if the daily enthusiasm in Chapel is any test. The faculty concerts and student recitals represent its finished products. The Band, Orchestra, Vesper Choir, Junior Chorus, and Glee Club practices represent some of the development that is continually taking place.

To broaden the horizon of the entire student body, the department encourages and heartily supports musical events of high calibre and artists of national reputation. In addition to the Music Education Course, leading to the degree of Bachelor of Science, courses in music are offered for students in the elementary, intermediate, and rural groups preparing for the teaching of music in the grades.

The studio teachers contribute in no small measure to the service which is rendered by preparing students to give worthwhile programs in the community.

In our treasure chest of memories is a gilt-edged moving picture of music in all of its inspiring forms, headed by the never-to-be-forgotten Christmas Carol service.

SCIENCE DEPARTMENT

Conference time

The progressive spirit of our Science Department has secured for it a prominent place among all State Teachers Colleges of the East. The equipment for chemistry, physics, and the biological sciences encourages experimentation. To keep the more important discoveries secret, a portion of the janitor's domain in the basement was annexed for a laboratory. Here students and faculty members make slides, cultures, mounts, and other materials to be used in the classroom.

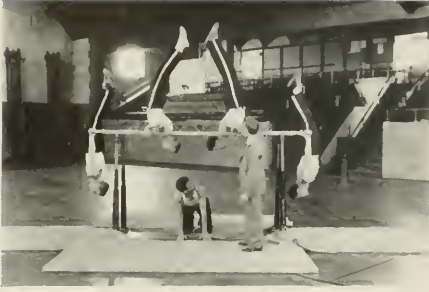

The required courses attempt to instil in every student the habit of scientific approach to every problem. Science is correlated with other phases of life so that we can understand and talk intelligently about scientific matters. Important scientific advancement is followed by keeping abreast with the latest literature. Some of our own faculty members are producing this new literature; others are translating foreign works and doing valuable research work; all are advancing the cause of science at the numerous educational conventions.

The increase in the number of students taking the free elective courses in the various sciences amply justifies the efforts put forth by the instructors of this department.

HEALTH AND PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Every student benefits from the Health and Physical Education Department. The courses offered under the direction of capable and efficient instructors aid the students to keep in good health and give them a thorough training in physical skills. The department is mainly responsible for the training of teachers in the special field of health and physical education. The increased number of graduates who obtained teaching positions at the close of last year demonstrates somewhat the progress being made.

The coaching of the athletic teams is conducted by the men members of the department, while the women conduct extra-curricular activities and intramural athletic tournaments for the women students. Tournaments in hockey, tennis, basketball, and baseball were successfully carried out by the Women's Athletic Association. This year the results of men's athletic contests have shown a marked progress.

Although participation in these various activities is purely voluntary, plans are being made by the instructors for the expansion of these groups until they involve the entire student body.

SUPERVISORS OF STUDENT TEACHING

How student teachers keep fit

Few people realize that the groups of students whom they notice traveling daily between the college and the schools in West Chester, as well as the rural schools in the vicinity, are really teachers. However, they would soon understand this to be the case if they could overhear their conversation.

At least one semester of every student's senior year consists of student teaching. In recent years this has come to involve more than the mere teaching of one class a day. Today supervisors and cooperative teachers assign units of work in which the students assume entire responsibility for the class. However, at the same time, the students take part in the extra-curricular activities, prepare case studies of the children whom they are teaching, and meet in conferences to discuss their work and to make future plans with the supervisors.

It is during the time of student teaching that college students become aware of the joys to be derived from the profession and the difficulties which they must be prepared to meet in the school program.

THE LIBRARY

Call number, please

Only those who have been connected with our college for a number of years can visualize the progress made by the library. The first library was merely a room in the main dormitory; the number of books was scant. In 1906 the present building was erected and the books were moved.

The library has kept pace with the other developments of the college. The increase in the number of books, the enlargement of the staff, the development of the pamphlet and picture collections, and the improvement in the binding and shelving of periodicals are but a few of the results.

The efficiency of the librarians has made possible most of these changes. Aside from her duties at the college, Miss Russell is a member of the Chester County Library Commission, while Miss Sauer is librarian for the Chester County Historical Society. The juvenile department, which serves both the college and the Demonstration School, has the special guidance of Miss Collicott.

HEALTH SERVICE

The doctor is in

One of the most familiar campus paths is that leading to the infirmary, in spite of the fact that most students attempt to evade it. It is only as they find it necessary to become acquainted with this part of the college administration that they become aware of the efficiency of the doctor and nurses whose duty it is to guard the health of the students.

It is almost impossible to compare the small unattractive infirmary of three years ago with the well-equipped, cheerful one of today. However, it is evident that this improved service is appreciated by the increased number of both day and dormitory students who willingly seek the advice of either Miss Glance or Miss Reese and the aid of Doctor Scattergood rather than avoid such help until it becomes absolutely necessary.

Not only is this department efficient in the aid which it renders, but also it is constant, for its service is always available.

A play in progress

DEMONSTRATION SCHOOL

About twenty-five years ago a philosophy of education began to develop which has greatly modified our conception of what a school should be.

Today, school is a place where the child comes, not with reluctance, but with joy. Nowadays, school is a place where he finds an atmosphere of freedom and friendliness, not of suppression and coercion. It is a place where he learns through doing things suited to his individual taste and needs, not through cut and dried tasks required of everyone alike; where his creative abilities are encouraged, not ignored; where personality and character grow side by side with intellect. Most important, he finds a teacher who is a guide, not a task-master. In such a school the most gifted child can find a challenge, and the least gifted gains confidence and courage.

It is the purpose of the Demonstration School to give expression to this new conception of the nature of education, which is today so profoundly modifying all teaching procedures.

BUSINESS OFFICE

The money receiving end

The Business Office acts as the coordinating unit of all divisions of the college. Its work of analyzing and dealing with student financial problems and bringing these before the Administration draws all three of these groups into close and friendly contact with one another.

Besides executing a uniform accounting system prescribed for all state institutions, the Business Office is responsible for collection of all state money. Under the newly established fiscal policy all finances are reported to this center for administrative control.

Not only does the business staff deal with student finances, but it prepares a budget aimed to keep all types of expenditures at an efficient minimum and yet retain high standards. The state appropriates a certain sum of money each year for the maintenance of the college, but the greater part of the money required is collected from the students. This fact in itself makes any attempt at budgeting a difficult one. A staff of four people under the direction of the Bursar and Revenue Agent carries out these business functions.

MAIN DORM'S "OPEN SESAME"
The crossroads of campus life.

GRADUATES

Every year a group of Seniors leave West Chester realizing that their campus life has been crammed with enjoyment and companionship. Not until their college days are really over do they recognize the extent to which their lives have centered about campus activities. To them each event has been a tempting promise for the future; each difficulty, a test of their courage and enthusiasm.

No class history can portray the march of events, for each Senior cherishes his own college "march of time." For one, the Senior Week-end has been the culmination of the hopes of four years, and for another, the actual receiving of the degree. But to all, the knowledge that they are almost prepared and free to commence a new life makes the Senior year one of thrilling expectations.

Perhaps the Seniors have always observed the underclassmen with dignified amusement, but only because of a strange intermingling of regret and joy—regret, because four years have passed so quickly; joy, because many adventurous explorations challenge them. This anticipation and eagerness for new experiences cause campus life to become a background of vivid memories and impressions which future years will not destroy.

CLASS ADVISERS

Four years ago Dr. Selzer entered into all class plans and organizations with such enthusiasm that he immediately made the entire class aware of his sincere desire and ability to help. The class is especially grateful for the constant guidance which Dr. Selzer has given in the past year. However, no stilted written phrase will suffice in expressing the appreciation of the Senior Class in having Dr. Selzer as an adviser for four years.

From Freshman days of four years ago to Senior days of nineteen hundred thirty-six, Miss Kiess has shared in the joys and troubles of the graduating class. She has helped to solve class problems not as a person bearing the title "Adviser" but rather as an invaluable friend of the class. Miss Kiess has willingly cooperated with class officers and committees in planning all class functions, and the success of these activities has been largely due to her guidance.

During the past year the college has offered courses for the benefit of teachers who desire to continue their professional studies toward their Bachelor of Science degree in Education. These courses can also be taken by other people and are often pursued by those who wish to change their Standard, Permanent, or Normal School certificate to the College certificate.

No regularly employed teacher is allowed to include more than six semester hours of credit on his schedule. The program offered to teachers able to attend night or Saturday morning classes included such subjects as United States History II, History of Music, Principles of Education, and several other important courses.

The Adult Education course has proved to be very valuable. This course is not limited in interest to teachers but also concerns students and parent leaders. It is unique in that it has been presented by a group of ten capable speakers and discussion leaders with Miss Lois Clark and Mr. McKelvie in charge.

LEARNING OUTSIDE FOR A CHANGE

In the spring students use the library steps as a study hall—they seem to furnish the necessary inspiration.

UNDERGRADUATES

Paddles, picnics, proms have symbolized the campus life of underclassmen in the last few years. Each class adopts the customs of the preceding ones until it is very apparent that Freshmen profit by the wealth of Sophomore experience, Sophomores by the wisdom of Juniors, and Juniors by the calm assurance of Seniors.

To the underclassman each college day appears to be part of an experience which is to be terminated in his Senior year. The new students may hesitate at first, but soon "there is nothing like college life." The Sophomores have forgotten they were ever "green cappers" and certainly do not wish to be reminded, especially by the Juniors.

The difficulties of the underclassmen are seldom mentioned except for an occasional remark about a "mere examination." They clamor for fun and usually find it waiting wherever they seek it.

No longer is there a feeling of rivalry among classes, but rather a sense of unity which enables them to accomplish greater things and to secure their prestige on campus.

JUNIOR CLASS

Three years at West Chester passed, and one more to go according to the Junior Class. But not one of the three years seemed to speed by so rapidly as the third, because it was crammed with more fun and work than was ever thought possible.

No other class was so fortunate as the Junior in 1935-36, for it succeeded in enlisting the aid of a good and just king early in November. This patriarch was none other than King Neptune from the noble land of the Deep Sea. He it was who consented to reign over its formal debut, the Junior Prom, and so with his royal court of frolics he ushered in with great pomp and ceremony its year of campus gaieties.

"Jolly Juniors" may be a trite expression, but in what better way can they be described? For whether in gym, practice room, class, dormitory room, or lobby, the merriest and most numerous laughs and chuckles—yes, and giggles too—come from the Juniors. To their clan belong many of the famous musicians, daring acrobats, spectacular athletes, and collegiate wits.

The Juniors have within their young college lives built a reputation of being noticeably united in all work and play activities, and together they look forward to their Senior year with its features of fun and responsibility. Now, while still filled with thoughts of laughing, joking Junior days, they are passing from under the guardianship of royal King Neptune and are beginning to plan a Senior republic.

SOPHOMORE CLASS

The Sophomores have traveled through the choppy waters of the Freshman year into a calmer sea. No group on campus is complete without some representatives of this class.

The Health Education students have sought and won innumerable rewards, such as a berth on the All-Eastern Football Team last fall and several track championships in the spring. Whether the activity is a small one or a campus highlight, the Sophomores are certain to be in the lead or trailing close behind the other classes. Each deck of the great ship Sophomore has sent its delegates to the college government associations. There are recruits for Quad Angles; many of these have got their first taste of rowing the ship through a becalmed sea and of knowing the joy which comes when the sails begin to catch the breeze.

On the fourteenth of March the ship was decorated for the gala occasion of the year—the Sophomore Dance. This annual event took the form of a St. Patrick's Day party. Nor did the social life stop then—the picnic meant another day of entertainment.

One big journey with every day bringing sight of a new land—this is the Sophomore's experience. Everywhere on the horizon, from the east to the west, from the north to the south, are indications of the future success of this class.

FRESHMAN CLASS

The Freshmen have taken the year with a stride. They have made themselves the pride of the student body and the hope of the faculty and alumni.

The newcomers passed through an orientation course in the form of teas, dances, banquets, lectures, and conferences. Each girl had a big sister, who was not only counsellor and friend, but who became a little girl with pigtails for the occasion of the "kids' party."

These good times were supplemented by classroom activities and freshman regulations. Participles and gerunds were brought from remote recesses, lower court collected many nickels, and name cards were enlarged to be worn about the neck. The men's pajama parade climaxed the regulations, and we no longer had to listen to "You're Driving Me Crazy" or watch the "poor old Quad" be measured with a frankfurter.

More serious matters arose, and Howard Davies acted as president protem. He took charge of several meetings and conducted the elections for the class. The officers were Thomas Middleton, president; William Birchall, vice-president; Marjorie Bruder, secretary; and Margaret Patton, treasurer. Plans for an active sophomore program were worked out with the aid of Miss Lois Clark and Mr. Andes, the class advisers.

This past year of progress has certainly revealed many of the vast mysteries that surround a freshman's soul.

ALMOST TIME FOR THE BELL

This campus walk between the Library and Recitation Hall witnesses many last minute dashes to class.

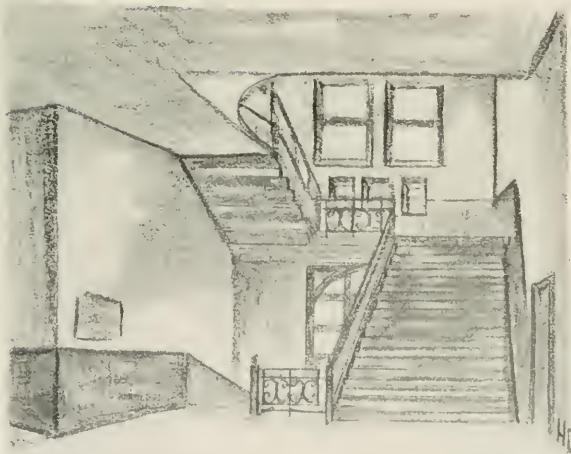

STUDENT ASSOCIATIONS

The pioneer days of campus organizations have passed, and in their place has arisen the period of numerous clubs, representative of practically every phase of college life. Not until recent years, however, have they assumed such a dominant position and increased so rapidly in number.

Nearly every year sees the dawn of some new campus group, which in time sets its pace with that of the other groups and sometimes surpasses them in popularity.

Whether a student's hobby is in the field of science, education, or history; whether his particular interest is in art, music, or dramatics, there is opportunity for self-expression in the many extra-curricular groups.

A great part of the social activity of the school hinges on the functioning of these various organizations. They represent the accomplishment of something other than academic work; they instil in each individual an earnest desire to aim for personal and group satisfaction; they are the acme of undergraduate life.

Each year brings the students closer to the actual governing of a major part of the college activities. The most recent organization for this purpose is the College Government Association, which receives and disperses the student activity fund and plans for entertainments.

Twenty people representing each of the three upper classes and holding positions in various clubs are elected by the students themselves to head and direct this important organization. Three committees plan the work. Priscilla Alden, as chairman of the Activities Committee, supervises the program of entertainments during the year. Members of the Budget Committee with Florence Shepherd as chairman are responsible for making the budget, deciding the activities, and appropriating money to each of these activities. The Finance Committee headed by Bettye Hilliard approves bills and their payment and collects the money. The plans of these groups are submitted to the Executive Committee composed of the four officers and the chairmen of the other three groups.

During this year a budget was prepared and presented to the student body after a thorough study of existing situations had been made. In the proposed budget for the second semester there was an itemized account of both the expenditures and the receipts together with the amount of reduction in the expenses.

For what is the activity fee used? The report submitted by the faculty committee composed of Mr. McKelvie, Miss Tyson, and Mr. Waters lists the functions under seven large divisions. In the administrative part are included salary, postage, and office equipment. All forms of athletics for both men and women come under one heading. In the entertainment accounts only professional types of entertainment are included, while the student welfare includes entertainment or social work conducted by the students themselves—such as student publications and publicity. A certain amount of the money is given toward the upkeep of the several cars used. The purchasing of books, supplies, and candy is listed under the bookroom account. Profits of the bookroom are turned into the association. A small amount of expenses is so varied that it is necessary to group it as miscellaneous.

Although this group has no faculty advisers, the Board of Trustees appointed a committee of three in December to direct the policies and help make plans for the future.

"A student voice in all college affairs" is the boast of every West Chesterite, for in all phases of campus life we find various groups of students setting forth their views, ideas, and ideals. Cooperation between faculty and students seems to be growing, and within recent months it has been manifested in the organization of diverse committees which delve into all types of problems involved in the set-up of our college.

Of these organizations, the student councils, the governing bodies of the college, are probably most important and most vital to the individual. The women's division was established several years ago when the women of the college saw a definite need for student participation in collegiate governmental affairs. Since that time the functions of this group have increased rapidly until it is now one of the leading groups in the social life on the campus.

Under its present system of administration this body is organized into three separate units: Advisory Board, Dormitory Council, and Day Student Council. The latter two deal with problems involving their individual divisions, while the former, represented by both dormitory and day-students, is concerned with problems which affect all women students.

The official governing body of the men is the Men's Student Council. The members of this body are elected by the men of Wayne Hall, and the former in turn elect their own officers. Through this branch of the student government organization many activities related to the general welfare of the residents of Wayne Hall are promoted and regulated.

It is the duty of this group to represent student interests to the college authorities, to direct matters of student policy, and to exemplify and maintain high standards of conduct among the men at West Chester.

In addition to the governing functions of the Council, which include appointment of a Lower Court and imposition of freshman regulations, its members join with the other student government organizations in sponsoring the Hallowe'en dance, the Christmas dance, and the Mid Winter Formal.

The Council has been most successful in creating a better feeling of fellowship among the men living in Wayne Hall. A higher standard of conduct has been maintained, and more of the men are beginning to realize the goals which they had set before themselves in attending college.

Day students make up a large part of the student body, but not until this year have the men day students had their own form of government. The Men's Day Student Council, which is composed of representatives of the four classes, is a part of the Cooperative Student Government.

In the Council, the twelve members who are elected by the respective classes try to look after the interests of the men day students by encouraging a feeling of cooperation between the dormitory and day student men. This group has as advisers Dean Light and Director Allen.

Already this division is making plans for next year's activities. The freshman regulations for day student men will be entirely controlled by this group. This past year, members of this governing body helped to make the Mid Winter Formal a success, and it is their desire to be able to sponsor some of their own social activities next year.

Every school term brings some additional student activity to the campus, and this organization represents not only one of the most recent but probably one of the most important to be added in the interests of day student men.

Few of us remember the fact that the Bible Study Club was originally founded by Dr. Heathcote a number of years ago. The club has grown steadily until it now has more than one hundred members. In nineteen twenty-seven Dean Menhennett assumed the leadership. Under his inspiring guidance the group assembles every Sunday morning in the Faculty Lounge of the Philips Memorial Chapel from nine until ten o'clock. Attendance is always good, and a feeling of friendship has developed among many of the members that carries over into other campus activities.

The Bible is carefully studied, and explanations and interpretations are made by Dean Menhennett. The discussion usually finds its way to modern topics of interest. Good fellowship is the byword of the group.

Two yearly entertainments are planned. An informal social gathering is held during the first semester, and a trip to Valley Forge is scheduled for the warmer days of May. This affords the much awaited opportunity to enjoy Mrs. Menhennett's excellent cooking and to see the Dean, with his sleeves rolled up, performing chef duties.

Journalism, photography, and high-powered salesmanship are only a few of the occupations which the members of the Serpentine staff have found themselves engaged in while preparing the 1936 Serpentine for publication. The Senior year has proved to be an extremely busy one for these students, but in attempting to create an extraordinarily fine yearbook they have also derived a great deal of enjoyment.

Mr. McKelvie

Everyone on campus has probably observed the editor rushing about with a portfolio filled to its capacity under his arm. His days have been crammed with interviews, "giving out and gathering in assignments," making appointments, proof-reading, and making innumerable trips from campus to printer and back again.

And then the business men of West Chester have no doubt become acquainted with the business manager either in person or through postal service, for he and members of the staff have been seen making frequent visits up town in search of "ads."

The literary staff worked together criticizing and improving one another's work with the aid of Miss Clark's many helpful suggestions. Although they were always thoroughly familiar with each article before it went to the printer's, they were nevertheless eager to see and read the same articles in actual print. The art, athletics, and photography staffs were more individual in character, but their contributions played an extremely valuable part in the production of the annual.

The business staff labored steadily and efficiently with the result that more "ads" were secured for this issue of the Serpentine than had been obtained for the past four years. The "pep" sales talks and publicity for Serpentine began early in the year and were continued effectively.

Miss Clark, Miss Lamborn, and Mr. McKelvie gave much of their time and advice in helping make the 1936 Serpentine as nearly perfect as possible. Miss Lamborn assisted in place of Miss Farnham, who was on leave of absence to study at Columbia University during the second semester.

Campus snapshots were acquired from many students, while others were taken by the Visual Education Department. A great effort was put forth to make the photography as flawless as possible.

The staff's dominating goal was that of making the contents of this year's Serpentine as informal, natural, and entertainingly interesting as possible to every student.

published articles, the first complete record of all meetings, policies, and papers; the first use of printed assignment blanks, press cards, and headline schedules; the first exclusive style sheet; and the first independent business department to regulate these growing systems.

This year a paid subscription list has been inaugurated and served with the aid of a newly granted second class mailing permit. As a result, our exchange list has been greatly enlarged. The first Quad Angles Constitution has been framed and adopted. The first annual editor's recommendations and report have been instituted, and the first annual banquet inaugurated. In admitting Quad twice a month, usually on the first and third Tuesdays, in the Y. M. C. A. room of Wayne Hall. The members of the club take an interest in these meetings and the attendance is good.

At the time of its founding the club took over the duties of conducting the college pep rallies. It also assumed responsibility for two yearly entertainments for the benefit of the general student body. This year the entertainments of the club consisted of a combination dance and moving picture show in the fall and a dance in the winter. Novel themes were used for both affairs. The members also sponsored the official football programs for all the home games.

Many people on campus believe that the Y. W. C. A. is responsible for only Thursday night meetings with their excellent speakers and discussions and are entirely unaware of the numerous other activities engaged in by this organization.

Sunday afternoons would be very dull if it were not for the frequent teas and vesper services sponsored by the Y. W. C. A. Visitors as well as students are grateful for their lobby cup of tea and the soft music which usually accompanies it. The Vesper Services in the chapel on rainy and sunny Sundays offer opportunities for meditation and enjoyment of worth while speakers and musicales.

Not only does the Y. W. C. A. sponsor functions of a religious nature, although that is its predominant aim, but it also plans such social affairs as dances and movies.

Miss Florence Lee performs many more duties than those of a usual club adviser, for she is at the same time adviser to each officer and cabinet member. However, every committee headed by a member of the cabinet has its own faculty sponsor.

The Young Men's Christian Association looks back on almost fifty years of service to the men of the college. Dr. Francis Harvey Green organized the group for Bible study, prayer meetings, mission work, and publication of the students' handbook. These functions were performed in an excellent fashion for many years.

Today the Y. M. C. A. has expanded its work so that it now participates in every type of college activity. In conjunction with the Y. W. C. A. such prominent persons as Dr. Henry Crane, Dr. Francis Harvey Green, and Christian Sanderson have been brought to the campus to speak to the student body. A feature of the meetings this year has been the weekly discussion group, composed entirely of students. Virtuous, religious books, and moral duties have been interesting topics for vigorous discussion.

The "Y" Room in the basement of Wayne Hall is the center of much of the college life for the dormitory men. It is equipped for recreation and pastime of all types. Keenly contested tournaments in chess, checkers, and ping-pong have engaged a large number of the men.

Such social functions as movies, dances, and dining room parties have received enthusiastic support from the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. Members are frequently in attendance at collegiate conferences of "Y" groups.

A local chapter of the Newman Club, a national organization of Catholic students in attendance at colleges and universities in the United States, holds regular meetings throughout the college year.

The aim of this organization is partly social and partly religious. An effort is being made to have this local chapter keep in touch with the one at the University of Pennsylvania and also to affiliate itself with the Eastern Province of Newman Clubs. The Province meeting this year was held in Philadelphia from February twenty-first to twenty-third.

Sometime during the first few weeks of the college year, Reverend Henry C. Schuyler, pastor of the St. Agnes Catholic Church in West Chester, assisted by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Knights of Columbus, plans a reception and dance which is held in the St. Agnes School for all the college students. At this time the students become acquainted with Reverend Schuyler and his assistants. The affair also affords them an opportunity to meet other Catholic students.

fast is planned. At this time the students receive Communion in a body at the Sunday morning Mass. From the Church they retire to one of the town's hotels or tea rooms where a breakfast is served. There are always some members of the college faculty present on this occasion and usually a guest speaker.

A Retreat, lasting one week, is held sometime during the year. At present, plans are being made to hold one each semester. It is conducted by either the local priests or a priest from nearby.

The regular Thursday evening meetings are held on the campus and are conducted by the students with the assistance of Reverend Joseph O'Connor, who is the present chaplain. The club chaplain is usually one of the assistant priests and is named by the pastor. Miss Mary Connell and Mr. J. Arthur Lewis are the present faculty advisers to the club. One of the chief features of these meetings is a discussion of Catholic doctrine; another is a talk by some outstanding person from West Chester or the vicinity. This speaker is usually a layman.

MOORE LITERARY SOCIETY

MOORE OFFICERS

Ammon Apple, Vice-President; Florence Gehman, Secretary; J. Earl Baker, President.

"To know is to rule" has always served as the keynote for the Moore Literary Society, the oldest organization on the campus. Nearly sixty-five years ago this society was formed and named in honor of Reverend William E. Moore, who was then President of the Board of Trustees and pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of West Chester.

Alternating each week with the Aryan Society, which was organized in eighteen seventy-nine, the Moores held regular bi-weekly meetings. These were continued until about nineteen twenty. Each of these public meetings was preceded by a private business meeting. Both of these gatherings were well attended by the students and townspeople. The programs which the Moore Society sponsored were literary and musical in nature. Likewise, both Moores and Aryans supported excellent orchestras.

It is interesting to note that many of the books in the library still bear a label "Property of the Moore Literary Society." For many years after the establishment of the societies there was no school library; however, each group bought many books to which members of the school had access. When the library was erected, these collections were donated to the school.

Since eighteen seventy-one the Moores have provided, without exception, an outstanding anniversary each year and have brought to the college some of the best talent available. Among those who have come on these occasions are Madame Louise Homer, David Bispham, and James Whitcomb Riley. This year the Moores brought the world famous Spanish dancers, Escudero and Carmita, to the campus.

Records of accomplishments of the Moore Literary Society show that when the Philips Memorial Chapel was erected, this society contributed more than two thousand dollars to the fund for its construction. Nor can one overlook the fact that graduates of the school who were active in the Moore Society can be found in practically every profession.

In addition to the anniversary celebration there is a Rush Program, the big student production. This year the Moores presented an original operetta entitled "Collegiate Grandpa", written by two members of the Junior Music Education group. Bertha Neubert wrote the story and the melodies while Herman Giersch composed the orchestra numbers.

The various activities of this organization give students an excellent opportunity to participate and, for those who are interested, make membership very worthwhile.

ARYAN OFFICERS

More than half a century ago the Aryan Literary Society was started, and since then it has stood with the Moore Society as one of the two oldest campus organizations. Each year this society has an Anniversary Program early in the fall and a Rush Program in the winter. "A Bold Front", which was entirely a student production, was given for the winter program this year.

In order that West Chester students should have access to books, the Aryans bought many volumes before there was a library. Later these were presented to the college library when it was begun.

During the past year there has been a reorganization of the society. Every two weeks there are meetings with prominent speakers from the faculty and the community. Late in the winter the constitution was revised, and the membership was increased by a hundred pledges.

Besides routine matters, the society sponsored a short story contest and an oratorical contest this year. The formation of a debating team for intercollegiate work has helped bring this organization to the eyes of the public. For next year's programs the Aryans are planning some special features, among which will be the production of "The Rivals" early in the fall.

To speak of dancing at West Chester is to think of dancing to the smart rhythms of the Purple and Gold Criterions. Favorite tunes are played in modernistic style at tempos that compel vibrant response. The orchestra, a distinctive West Chester feature, is one of the best to be found in any eastern college.

Organized as an official school project in nineteen twenty-six, it soon rose to undisputed recognition. The Hotel Ambassador and Convention Hall in Atlantic City; Rehobeth Beach, Delaware; and the University of Delaware have been prominent hosts. Last fall the young men made a name for themselves at Penn State with their special arrangements and novelty numbers.

It is no wonder that they are so popular; not many eleven piece orchestras offer violin trios, wood wind ensembles, trombone trios, brass choir, glee club, and novelty selections. Credit must go to the individuals, as all of them are instrumental artists. Instead of enjoying vacation time at home, they are usually playing—earning their college education. Work is play to them, and they all enjoy it.

At Vesper services on quiet Sunday afternoons, at the Christmas Carol service, and at the Spring Concert the students enjoy the music of the Vesper Choir.

Under the direction of Mr. Hausknecht, approximately sixty-five members participate in this choral work with the result that the organization has become the most prominent choral society on campus.

Unlike many other organizations the membership of the choir is specified, for it consists of all Senior music students and a selected group of underclassmen. Consequently, it is an honor to become a member of the Vesper Choir while one is an underclassman, since this group receives entrants only according to ability. The blend of excellent voices has resulted in fine choral work that adequately explains the fine reputation which this group holds.

The Vesper Choir prepares programs for two Vesper services each year. Probably no other Sunday afternoons are more enjoyed on campus than are these, during which one has an opportunity to spend an hour in the chapel at sunset time listening to sacred music sung by the Vesper Choir. On March twenty-ninth the Y. W. C. A. sponsored the Lenten Vesper Service.

The Junior Chorus is another group on this campus which serves so faithfully and creditably the Muse Euterpe. Three times a year the student body is given an opportunity to see and hear a public performance of the rites performed twice each week in room C-5 to the great muse of harmony.

Each year the Christmas Carol service is enriched by a splendid contribution from this group, which consists of the freshman, sophomore, and junior girls of the Music Education Department.

This year the feature number of the Vesper Service conducted annually by the chorus was the stirring "Miriam's Song of Triumph" by Franz Schubert, performed for the first time on this campus. The chorus was ably assisted by Miss Mary Travaglini and Miss Helen Price as soloists.

The selections sung by the chorus at the Spring Concert ranged from the fantastical "Dream Song" by Stringham to the gay and blithesome "The Wind's in the South" by John Scott. The program showed the ability of the girls to interpret music with a fine understanding and skill under the excellent leadership of their conductor, Miss Gertrude Schmidt.

Every spring the student body becomes suddenly aware of the excellent campus Symphony Orchestra which West Chester possesses. However, few people realize the tremendous amount of work which the members of the orchestra do throughout the year. The orchestra is composed chiefly of music students, although its membership of approximately sixty includes several students from other groups.

This year the orchestra is under the direction of Mr. Powell Middleton, who, because of his wide experience, is able to make rehearsals interesting and lively. His numerous anecdotes involve his experiences with the Reading Symphony Orchestra and with the Victor Reading Company. Recently the director has made it possible for members of the orchestra to hear recordings by well known orchestras, led by renowned conductors, of the same selections which they are striving to play well. Consequently, the orchestra rehearsals have increased from one to two a week with the aim of achieving more nearly perfect results.

"All the world's a stage, and all the men and women merely players." In the Little Theatre Players each member has his chance to demonstrate his acting ability. The light and glamorous person or the gloomy and melancholy character—each requires a definite art in portrayal.

Eight years ago, at the request of the students, the Little Theatre Club was started. The group sought the assistance of Miss Ramsey. At first, Shakespearian plays were read in the meetings; but the members were not content with this single activity, and in the spring of nineteen twenty-eight they produced their first play.

Two years later Miss Barrer was appointed to coach dramatics on the campus, and under her excellent direction the Little Theatre Players have won great acclaim. Every year this group, which is selected by tryouts, produces two plays—one in the fall and another in the spring. "The Bishop Misbehaves" and "Another Language" were this year's results of the fine work of the organization.

There are not many types of campus activities which the Secondary Education Club does not sponsor at some time during the college year. For the past several years, in addition to other functions, this club has held two dances to which the entire college is always invited. The students attend, knowing that a novel program will be presented.

Few outside speakers take part at the regular meetings, for the majority of programs are not only planned by the club members but are also carried on by students interested in secondary education. The programs involve reports of conferences attended by students, reviews of articles from magazines, and panel discussions concerning recent trends in education.

The annual Secondary Education play is anticipated for many weeks before it is presented. For the past two years mystery plays have won the praise of those who have attended. Its cast is always chosen from the entire Secondary Education group.

This year the club's production, "A Murder Has Been Arranged," held the audience in tense suspense by its terrifying plot.

The club is very fortunate in having Miss Gertrude Sipple, supervisor of student teaching in the secondary schools, as its adviser.

The present Rural Club was organized in nineteen twenty-nine because of the desire on the part of the rural group members to further their interest in rural life and education and a wish to form closer bonds of friendship. It has developed into a well organized and enthusiastic group who, under the direction of Miss Lois Clark, seek to determine how they may best help young people in rural communities.

At the regular club meetings valuable information is presented by speakers, and discussions follow. Picnics and parties are arranged by the committees. The outstanding feature of the year was the celebration of Rural Day on April the eighteenth to which all members and alumni were invited. The program for the day centered around the theme, the teacher's responsibility for helping to enrich the life of the rural community. In the morning, reports from teachers in service indicated how teachers are enriching the life of the school child. The remainder of the day was given to a consideration of how teachers can help to make possible a more satisfying life for people of rural communities. A banquet and social hour in the evening ended an enjoyable d

The Elementary Club, one of the newly formed campus groups, was organized in November of 1935. It meets the need felt by student teachers in the primary and intermediate groups to merge their interests and become better acquainted with one another and with their co-operative teachers.

The opportunity to meet informally is given members by means of occasional teas and other social functions. Speakers who have had actual experience in the field of education are brought before the club. In this way the group gains constant insight into modern educational methods.

Membership and participation are limited to student teachers of the primary and intermediate groups, their co-operative teachers, and the supervisors of the groups—Miss Hobbs and Mrs. Stabler. At the time of organization membership consisted of forty-eight students. This number will be increased with each semester's group of student teachers.

It is hoped that the friendship among members will continue after graduation and that these future teachers will find that participation in this club has been profitable.

One of the oldest and at the same time one of the youngest clubs to be found on campus is the Science Club. It is old in the historical sense, for it was organized by Dr. S. C. Schmucker in the eighteen nineties; it is young in the sense that the club attempts to prevent any new item of scientific interest from escaping its notice.

This year the club was divided into two sections. One section included freshman and sophomore members while the second was composed of upperclassmen. Thus each group could discuss more freely those topics most closely related to its interests. However, neither division became selfish and entirely separated from the other, for the most important discoveries and conclusions were always presented to the entire club.

The scientist is usually characterized by his research in the laboratory. This club went a step further in realizing that a tremendous amount of research can also be accomplished through reading and club "bull sessions."

The French Club is noted for being very versatile, for its meetings are French bridge parties, puppet shows, treasure hunts, and teas. Thus it is very evident that members of this club cannot complain of unvaried programs or formal routine meetings.

Each member has an opportunity during the semester to conduct the business portion of the meeting and, of course, the language spoken is French. French songs are frequently sung, French jokes told, and French cartoons interpreted.

Recently the club transformed its classroom into a "make believe" restaurant with French waitresses and food. With paper discs for money, many orders were given and satisfactorily filled by means of marshmallows and ginger cakes.

The club has often spent a pleasant hour looking at and commenting on postal views of France and her people. As club projects members collect and bring into the club various materials dealing with French civilization.

Dr. Staley, the sponsor of French Club, upon being asked what part she plays in these activities, answered that she "tries to make the wheels go around."

Several years ago certain members of our faculty and student body, realizing the need of discussing vital problems which confronted them in their daily activities, organized the Herodotus Club. Since that time the successive club members have broadened their general knowledge and have developed a more vital interest in history by providing for directed group discussion.

Many short but very interesting talks are given by the members of the society at their bi-weekly meetings. President Swope, Dr. Heathcote, Dr. Pleasants, and Mr. Andes are scheduled every year in addition to other prominent speakers in the community.

Officers are elected for each semester of the school year by the members of the club who are in good standing. An executive committee is appointed by the president to meet with the officers and prepare vital and extremely interesting programs for the coming meetings.

Once each semester Dr. Heathcote, the faculty sponsor for the society, directs the club on a tour to note the very interesting historical sights of West Chester. Included in these trips are the "underground railroad" station, the former location of our college on Gay Street, and the site of the first home in West Chester.

Ship ahoy! The S. S. Travelers will sail for a world cruise. Miss Elliott is pilot while Miss Broadhead acts as captain on board the boat. We sail from the icy lands of the north to the hot islands of the tropics and then south to frozen Little America; from the blue waters of the Mediterranean to the calm and peaceful Pacific.

Frequently the boat docks so that the passengers may glimpse the beauties of the land. There is the Grand Canyon with its multiferous colors and physio-graphical features! The Orient with its old customs and numerous types of work seems vast and overwhelming; the raising of tropical fruits and the manufacture of various products, as well as fishing off the shores of Cape Cod, inform these tourists of the many occupations existing throughout the world. The burning sands of the deserts and the towering peaks of the mountains are not unusual sights.

The members of the Travelers Club are able to take such vivid imaginary cruises by means of slides and moving pictures. In this organization, which is nearly ten years old, the students have an opportunity not only to see how other peoples live, but to hear about existing customs through the medium of reports and lectures given by people who have traveled extensively.

Probably no other college subject offers more interesting material for club work than psychology. A group of students on the campus has realized this fact with the result that a very active club, under the guidance of Dr. Selzer, exists and is steadily increasing in membership and popularity.

Worthwhile outside speakers are frequently brought to the college by this club, which is always glad to have non-members attend its meetings.

At regular meetings members have the opportunity to observe and to come in contact with problem children who are under the supervision of the college. They become familiar with many psychological tests and understand the value of their application.

No doubt the most interesting aspects of this club are the trips made to various institutions such as Sleighton Farms and Glen Mills. These trips have been taken for several years. They have been of the utmost educational value in revealing some of the social conditions which exist and which will be faced by the graduating teacher.

Did you ever wonder where the signs you see about campus are made? They are the work of the Poster Club. This group meets every Wednesday at four o'clock in the Art Studio to plan novel posters to advertise campus events. The materials are bought by charging the small fee of twenty-five cents for six posters. Designs are made individually through the initiative and ingenuity of the members.

For several years the club has been ably directed by Miss Lamborn. All of its meetings are informal. The main object is to produce posters, but the privilege of exchanging views with Miss Lamborn affords an even greater pleasure. Members continually attempt to produce new and different posters to beautify the campus.

Although most of the activity is actual work, there is one main social event each semester. This year there was a studio supper in January; a theatre party was planned for May.

The experience gained through work in making posters has proved to be very practical for the active members of the club. An excellent opportunity is afforded for the development of talent and imagination.

The Library Club serves as one of the most practical and useful groups on the campus. It was organized in nineteen hundred and twenty-seven by Miss Alice Cochran, former librarian at West Chester. Its members become acquainted with the work of the library both as a possible vocation and as a practical aid for the teacher. They also serve the college by assisting the regular librarians in their routine work.

Discussions, reports, and interesting talks by guest speakers comprise the usual procedure of the meetings. The club members are expected to give two hours a week to the work of the library, and all who faithfully fulfill this requirement are entitled to a special credit point in recognition of their service.

Some of the special activities are taking charge of the periodical room, mounting pictures for the file, discharging books at the circulation desk, putting the shelves in order, and filing cards.

In addition to the many other benefits, the club members have the privilege of free access to the stacks.

Some people are never absent from the dining room; these are the hostesses. Contrary to common campus belief, their one and only duty is not merely to sit at the end of the dinner table and carefully estimate the amount of dessert which they can safely give to each of the ten waiting people. No, they are responsible for the general conduct of the dining room and for suggestions for improvement in service and menu.

Hallowe'en, Christmas, Valentine's Day, and the "Coming of Spring" are recognized by the Hostess Club as "party nights" in the college dining room. Elaborate decorations are planned which transform our daily restaurant into a setting fit for the occasion. No other programs are enjoyed in such an informal, carefree attitude as those presented at these parties.

This year, under the chairmanship of Doris Yoder, the club has successfully attempted to make eating less of a "hurry up" affair and more of a social part of campus life.

MEN'S ATHLETICS

The Purple and Gold clad men of our athletic teams have faced stronger competition throughout every passing year. The improvement that is so evident in every department of the college has not lost step here. We need only contrast our schedules and results of the past with those of this year to see how much more keen the competition has grown.

It is true that our teams have not won all of their games, but in every contest they have displayed a fighting spirit that is distinctly a heritage of West Chester athletic teams.

Excellent coaching plus a fine cooperative spirit on the part of the men have been the predominating factors in attaining this success. West Chester has also been fortunate in that it has the most favorable facilities for athletics. The equipment is the best type obtainable. In addition, the athletic fields have been so remodeled in the past three years that they are now equal to those of any other college.

The football schedule for nineteen thirty-five was the most difficult one any team representing the Purple and Gold has yet faced. During a ten day practice session before classes there were practice games with the Philadelphia Eagles, Ursinus, and Franklin and Marshall that did much toward preparing the team for the regular schedule.

On September twenty-eighth a hopeful West Chester team led by Captain George McGinness journeyed to New Brunswick to oppose a highly-rated Rutgers team. West Chester's gridgers satisfied a grim determination to win, and that evening the scoreboard on the New York Times Building flashed out the score—West Chester 19, Rutgers 7. The second opponent on the locals' schedule was Elon College. The Southerners offered unexpected opposition and the Killingerites only managed to eke out a nine to six victory. The following week P. M. C. furnished the opposition on their home field at Chester. West Chester, perhaps a bit too confident, held on for fifty minutes and then went down to defeat before two quick Cadet touchdowns.

On October nineteenth the University of Baltimore came to West Chester to be overwhelmed by an avalanche of five Purple and Gold touchdowns. The third home game of the season was played the following week against the LaSalle gridmen. As usual this combination of teams furnished a thrilling game, but it was not a West Chester day. LaSalle pushed over a touchdown early in the second half for the only score of the afternoon. A week later the hitherto untied and undefeated Lock Haven Teachers College team found themselves on the short end of an eighteen to nothing reverse at the hands of an aroused opponent. The most exciting game of the season was played on November ninth at Reading with Albright College. Rising to new heights, Glenn Killinger's West Chester Rams snatched a seven to six victory from the fire to repeat their thrilling conquest of two years previous. At Chestertown, Maryland the following week Washington College held a three point lead for three quarters. In the last quarter the Purple and Gold machine began to click and ground out nineteen points to crush its game opponents.

The Western State Teachers College outfit paid a visit to West Chester on November twenty-third. Both teams played spectacular ball, but the verdict went to the Westerners by a seven to six margin. On Thanksgiving Day West Chester played host to Waynesburg College, a fine team from western Pennsylvania. The day was rainy, and the cards spelled victory for the team tetting the breaks. This time the Purple and Gold team managed to come through, fifteen to six, ending a brilliant season and bringing to a close the college football career of fourteen Seniors.

JOHN STECKBECK: The most durable player during the past four years. Never shirked, always willing to play any position, and never injured.

RALPH FUOSS: A splendid offensive guard, never stopping his offensive drive; a fine spirit even though of the quiet type.

CAPTAIN GEORGE MCGINNESS: Proved an excellent leader in the Rutgers game. A shoulder injury in the P. M. C. game incapacitated George for the season.

CARL BOYER: Played as a guard. Although not a regular, saw consistent service and played a good game.

SAMUEL LENGEL: A guard who learned the rudiments here at West Chester. Quiet and unassuming, but a fighter.

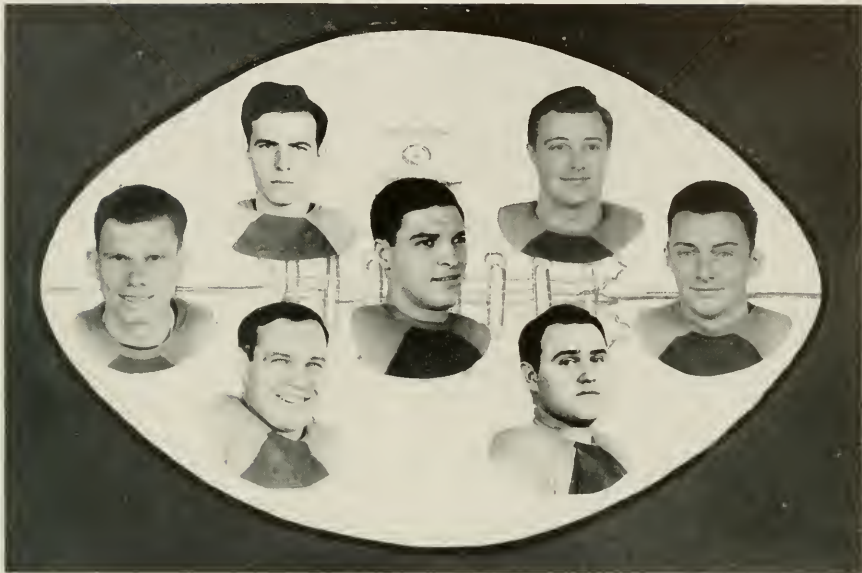

EARL FUOSS: The finest fighting spirit on the squad. Handicapped with bad legs and a small body; a grand center and an inspiration to the squad.

The first Freshman football team to represent West Chester played a short but difficult schedule. Although failing to win any of their four games, the yearlings did manage to score against each of their opponents.

In the opening game of the season Pennington School, the New Jersey preparatory school champions, nosed out the visiting West Chester Freshmen by a last minute touchdown on a long forward pass.

The University of Pennsylvania Freshmen handed the yearlings from West Chester their second defeat in the only home game for the locals. The score was only seven to six at half time in favor of the visitors, but the Red and Blue team was too strong, and the MacLean proteges went down to defeat after a gallant stand by a score of nineteen to six.

One of the most exciting games on the schedule was played at Perkiomen Preparatory School. The Purple and Gold men outscored their opponents in first downs and in ground gained, but in spite of the fact they kept in the shadow of the Perkiomen goal line, they were unable to score more than one touchdown. This was not enough to overcome the nine point total garnered by Perkiomen on a safety and touchdown.

In the final game the Purple and Gold outfit gained the distinction of being the only team to score on the Albright Freshmen, but their opponents had a big edge in scoring power and smothered them twenty-six to six.

West Chester's harriers, by winning the Junior Middle Atlantic championship meet, turned what would probably have been an unsuccessful season into quite a brilliant one. Handicapped by the graduation of Al Knabb, the best distance man in West Chester history, the cross country men settled down to consistent practice and hard work early in the season and accomplished the unexpected.

In November they had outclassed most of their competitors by becoming the Junior Middle Atlantic champions. In competing for this title the team defeated squads from LaSalle, University of Pennsylvania, and St. Joseph's. During the remainder of the season the team ran against the University of Pennsylvania and the Germantown Boys' Club in dual meets.

Individual members of the team competed in several open A. A. U. meets and street runs with fair success. The meets with Germantown and Pennsylvania were unsuccessful for the Purple and Gold harriers from a victory standpoint but the underclassmen gained some experience that will prove valuable in their later meets. The Freshmen also ran against Williamson Trade School and lost.

Captain James German and Zenas Savage were the Seniors who saw active service on the team during the past four years. Their presence will be greatly missed next year.

A completely new schedule is being arranged for the harriers for the nineteen thirty-six season. New teams are to be added to face the Purple and Gold men. The Teachers are out to conquer new fields and rise to new heights in their own class.

West Chester's varsity soccer team added more fame to its already enviable reputation by completing another highly successful season. The final summary shows eight wins against one loss for the locals. This lone reverse was the first that the Purple and Gold booters have met in college competition in the past four years. Coach Waters' soccer teams have set a record that cannot be matched by any other eastern college team.

The Alumni provided the opposition for West Chester's undergraduates in the first game of the season, and, as usual, the latter won. The count was three to nothing. A highly rated Penn A. C. team came next into the path of the Purple and Gold avalanche. The Pennacs went back to Philadelphia smarting under the sting of a six to nothing setback.

Ursinus College furnished plenty of opposition for three quarters of their game but weakened, and again West Chester came through to capture its third successive victory of the season. A feature of the schedule was the five day trip made by the team to New York State. In the course of this tour the locals played three games.

The first contest of this series was played with Courtland Teachers College at Courtland. The opposition proved to be much stronger than any the Watersmen had previously met, but West Chester's long winning streak was kept intact when the Rams tallied the lone goal of the game.

It remained for Syracuse University to accomplish what was beginning to seem impossible; namely, to defeat the Purple and Gold soccer representatives. A battered Teachers team lowered its emblem for the first time in four years when Syracuse took a rough and tumble contest by a three to two score.

The defeat seemed to lift a great responsibility from the shoulders of the Watersmen. Six tallies were rolled up against Bard College on the following day. After a two week layoff the team then journeyed to Western Maryland and opposed the strong and stubborn Green Terrors. With only minutes to play the score was tied at three all. The Purple and Gold team then proved its greatness with a last minute rush for the Western Maryland goal that netted a score and the victory.

To complete a strenuous season the team breezed through with victories over Penn Mutual and Delaware by four to one margins. With one long streak ended, the Rams left a new three game run of victories to be carried over to next season.

SOCCER SENIORS

Singer, Howley, Moore.
Topping, Gwinn, Rockwell.

JAMES SINGER: Regular goalie for three years. A "bear" on defense and a goalie whom any team would be proud to have.

JACK HOWLEY: Although lacking in weight, Jack made his presence felt in all games at his inside right position.

ALBERT MOORE: A halfback whose fine playing on defense saved many games for the team.

EDWARD TOPPING: A senior who never played soccer before coming to West Chester, earned a right fullback position in his Junior and Senior years.

CAPTAIN ALBERT GWINN: A great player in a pinch. Played right wing. Was one of the hardest shots in college soccer.

JACK ROCKWELL: A substitute goalie who deserves praise for the fine way in which he fought his way to a varsity position

Clouser, Conard, Rupert.

HARRY PORTER: Another Senior who worked his way to a varsity berth. Had the misfortune to break his leg in the Penn Mutual game.

FRANK GROFF: Worked up from the junior varsity to a regular position on the varsity in his Senior year.

ROBERT REES: Received All-American recognition in '34 and '35. A regular full-back, Bob was one of the most valuable of the Seniors.

JOSEPH CLOUSER: A "music supe" who deserves a great deal of credit for his fine playing at all times.

CHARLES CONARD: A steady, dependable player, always doing his best. "Chic" played right halfback during his four years at West Chester.

DANIEL RUPERT: One of the best soccer players on the Purple and Gold squad. Played center forward and was the team's leading scorer.

The Freshman soccer team followed in the footsteps of the varsity outfit and completed a difficult season with much success. The Freshmen did not win so many games as the varsity, but they ended the season with six victories, three ties, and four losses.

The first two games resulted in ties with Coatesville and Kennett Square. After losing a close one to Avon Grove, the yearlings journeyed to Hill School to capture their first win.

Kennett Square came next on the schedule and was defeated, but Philadelphia Normal School overcame the Freshmen the next week. The locals avenged all previous defeats by romping over the Germantown Boys' Club by the lopsided score of seven to two. This victory was followed by victories over Harrington and Lansdowne High Schools. Girard College furnished the opposition in the last game of the season. The contest resulted in a victory for Girard College, which continued its winning streak to fifty-five consecutive games.

Swimming is one of the infant sports at West Chester. Nineteen hundred thirty-six marks only the third year of serious competition for the splashers. In this time the team has won no major meets. On the other hand, considerable improvement has been made since swimming first came into its own at the college.

This year's outfit was captained by the versatile Charles Conard. Coach MacLean doubled up on his work and coached the swimmers as well as the freshman basketballers.

The swimming team met Osteopathy and Swarthmore once each and Villanova twice in the course of the season and lost meets to all of these teams. Individual performances on the part of the members were the only highlights for the locals. Conard participated in both diving and swimming events. Charles Kent, another Senior, was a diving specialist.

Jack MacNab, a sophomore, was the best of the backstrokers. Burton, Shellenberger, Doyle, and Stuber were other upperclassmen on the team. This latter group will act as the nucleus for the coming season. Gray and Bickel, Freshmen, also offer much promise of developing into winners for West Chester.

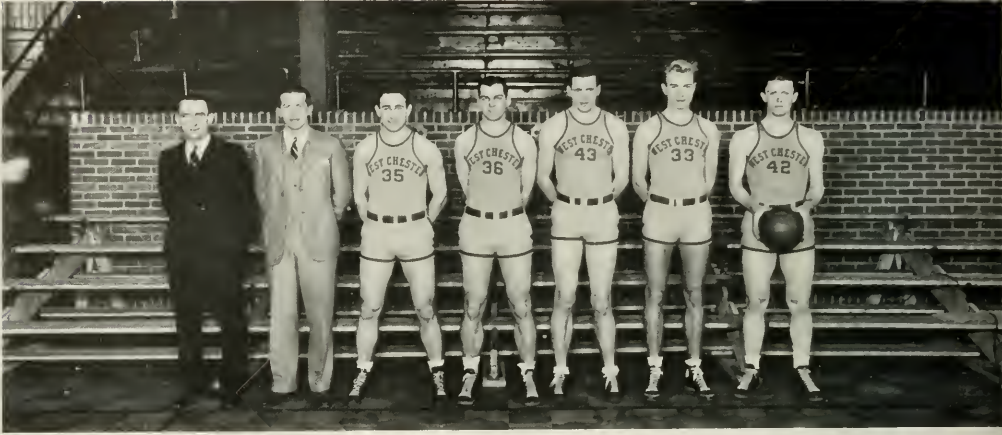

At the end of the season George Burton was elected captain for next year. Burton, a distance and relay man, will prove a capable leader. Already an attractive schedule is being arranged.

VARSITY BASKETBALL

Coach Killinger, Rockwell, M. Robinson, Phillips, Manifold, Dotti, Maschinsky.

At the beginning of the nineteen thirty-five season the prospects of a successful court year seemed rather dull. The graduation of May, nineteen thirty-five left only two regulars as a nucleus for this year's team. They were captain-elect Frank Maschinsky and Millard Robinson.

However, by the time the first three games had been played, the entire Philadelphia district realized that West Chester was to have a powerful and consistently victorious team. The reason for this astounding reversal of expected form was the brilliant team work displayed by the hold-overs from last year and the three underclassmen, "Jack" Hinchey, "Vince" Phillips, and Clevio Rogo.

As the season progressed, the quintet set up a record which has not been equalled by any other West Chester team against such competition. Fifteen victories were garnered by a fighting Purple and Gold team that lost only four games. The high spots of the season were marked by victories over LaSalle, St. Thomas, and Pennsylvania Military College. Against St. Thomas in the game at West Chester the Rams reached the peak of perfection; they clicked as a unit in every department.

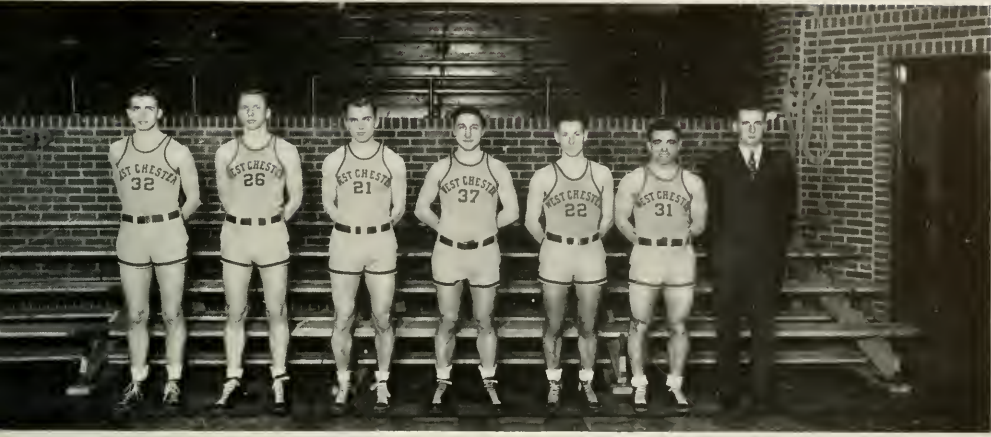

Glenn Killinger took over the coaching of the basketball team early in the season, extending his duties from football and baseball to this third major sport. Under his guidance the team progressed and developed into an aggressive, fighting ball club—one which has played hard, clean basketball and continually stepped on the court determined to win.

Undoubtedly it was the most aggressive five ever to play for West Chester. As a team these men rolled up more points than any previous squad to represent the college. The individual high scoring mark of one hundred seventeen points was completely smashed by "Vince" Phillips with a new record of one hundred sixty. Clevio Rogo and Captain Frank Maschinsky also surpassed the old mark with scores of one hundred fifty-six and one hundred twenty-four points respectively. Millard Robinson was one of the best defensive players on the team; he holds a record which will be hard to surpass.

The defeat of Pennsylvania Military College at the Arena in Philadelphia brought to a close a very successful season. The Cadets were defeated three different times on three different floors.

ROSS MANIFOLD: Another center—"Mannie" stands six feet four inches in his basketball uniform. His play under the basket was outstanding. Ross recovered the ball from the opponent's backboard continually.

MILLARD ROBINSON: Millard alternated with Maschinsky at center for three years. During his Senior year he filled the varsity center berth and did a fine job. He was known for his aggressiveness and fighting spirit.

BERNARD GOLDBERGER: "Bernie" played two years of varsity ball at West Chester. He was especially good on the offense and, although not a regular, could be counted on to come through with some points when they were most needed.

CAPTAIN FRANK MASCHINSKY: One of the best all-round players ever to represent the Purple and Gold on the court. Frank played center for three years and guard his Senior year. He was among the team's three leading scorers.

Right in the path of the fast stepping varsity basketball team came the Freshman team. This outfit set up a record that will stand as a challenge to all Freshman teams playing at West Chester. Under the tutelage of Coach Munroe MacLean the team won fourteen out of seventeen contests, eleven of them in succession. Some of the victories were scored over Triangle A. C., Smith-Piefry, and Pennington and Perkiomen Preparatory Schools. These teams are some of the finest in this section.

Milton Blitz played no small part in the success of the team. His playing was superb, both on offense and defense. "Milt" was the high scorer, and very few field goals were made against him. "Mike" Shello, "Jack" Metzgar, "Chic" Donahey, "Bob" Will, "Joe" Cave, and "Nick" Bruno were among the other players aiding in the success of the squad.

The opening of the nineteen thirty-five baseball season marked the debut of Coach Glenn Killinger's first baseball team. The coach was confronted by a two-fold problem—a difficult schedule and lack of experienced players. As the season progressed the team was on the upgrade, and defeats suffered in the early spring were avenged in return games played as the season drew to a close.

The defeat of the Washington University team was one which helped put the Purple and Gold diamond men in the winning class. Washington did not lose a game until it met the Rams on the West Chester High School field. The superb pitching of "Lefty" Barnes, sophomore ace of the Teachers' staff, put the Purple and Gold on top nine to eight when Emil Messikomer clouted a homer in the closing moments of the game.

A well-balanced Delaware nine administered an eight to four trimming to Coach Killinger's nine. Then the Teachers staged a comeback by defeating Susquehanna for the second time. Pennsylvania Military College split a two game series with the West Chester Rams.

The Purple and Gold team was definitely on the upgrade by the time it met the Indiana State Teachers College team in the final game of the season. The game was close and exciting, but the West Chester men came through to complete the season with a ten to nine victory.

As the team swings into action this year it is expected that Captain "Al" Gwinn will be holding down the shortstop position; "Al" Moore, second base; "Bucky" Forbes, first base; and "Phil" Clifton, third base. "Johnny" Taronis will be first string catcher. The pitching staff will consist of "Lefty" Barnes, "Bill" Rineer, Karl Robinson, and Alden Ramsdell.

Coach Killinger has been confronted with the problem of developing pitchers. Barnes is the only man on the squad who saw continuous service last year. "Sarge" Clark and "Ed" Remorenko, regulars on last year's squad, are missed greatly. Both of these men left college to play professional baseball.

The season was opened on April eighteenth with Washington College at Chestertown, Maryland. Penn State, Delaware University, Kutztown, and Pennsylvania Military College were other opponents faced during the season.

ROBERT McNELLY: A valuable man to any diamond squad. "Bob" really knows baseball. Played a very important part coaching base runners during games. Also played as a pinch-hitter.

ALBERT MOORE: The second "Al" among the Senior baseball men. An infielder who has played as a regular for four years. Played first base for two years; was changed to a third-sacker last season.

CAPTAIN ALBERT GWINN: One of the best shortstops to don a Purple and Gold baseball uniform. Holds one of the best batting and fielding records of any player on the squad. When it came time to elect a captain for the nineteen thirty-six season, there was no man better fitted for the position than "Al."

FRANK MASCHINSKY: Frank stuck to basketball his first three years at West Chester. This year, however, he turned his fancy to baseball as well. Is expected to hold down a regular outfield berth and to strengthen the batting average of the team.

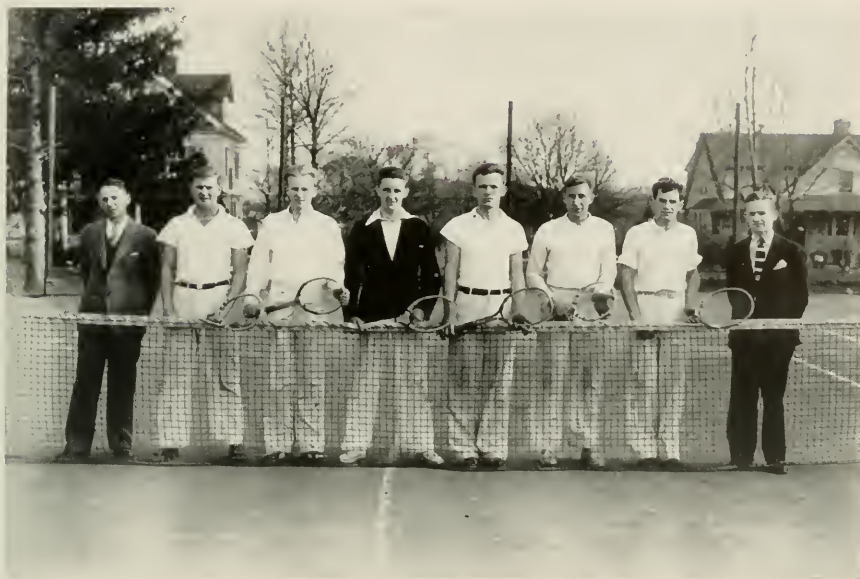

ROBERT REES: "Bob" played in the outfield for two years. When Coach Killinger came to West Chester, he shifted Rees to second base where he made more than a commendable showing.

Last year's tennis team, coached by Captain Lawson Earle, completed its schedule with only a single defeat. Under the leadership of Captain Frank Groff, a three-year letterman at West Chester, the team hopes to duplicate or better last year's record. The team will be further strengthened by three outstanding performers from last year, namely, Ralph Bentz, the present holder of the college tennis championship; William Reynolds, recognized as one of the leading players in Chester County; and Fred Anderson, a consistent winner. The group that has tried for the two remaining berths includes John McFarland, LeRoy Booth, John Leackey, James Mathers, and Paul Towner. This year the team is being coached by Professor James Andes.

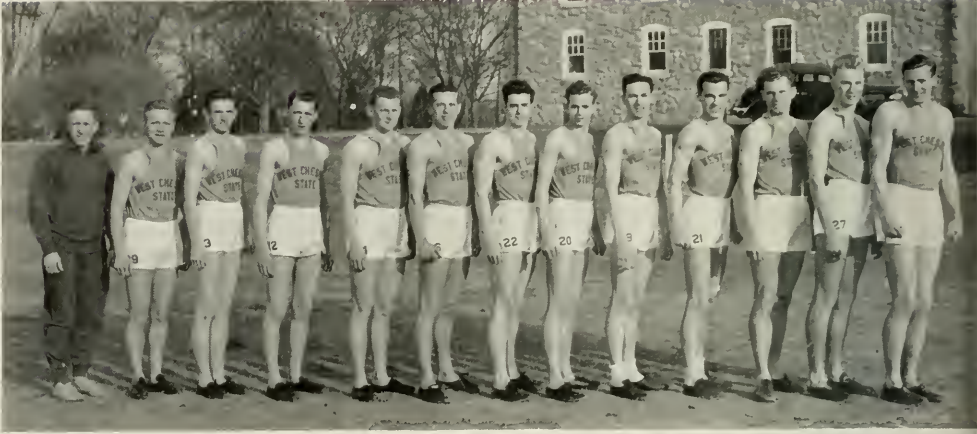

A few changes have been made in the schedule from last year. Robert Elrick as manager has succeeded in arranging twelve matches for the Purple and Gold courtmen. The season opened on April the eighth with the University of Pennsylvania courtmen furnishing the opposition. St. Joseph's, Pennsylvania Military College, and Villanova were scheduled on a home and home match basis, while Penn, Lutheran Theological Seminary, Temple, Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and Science, Millersville State Teachers College, and Albright were scheduled once each.

It has been the repeated aim of Coach Earle Waters to have an undefeated track season at West Chester. For four successive years this hope was almost realized, but there was always one defeat to mar a perfect record. However, in nineteen thirty-five the track team completed one of the most difficult schedules it has ever faced and came through with a clean slate.

Victories were scored over Villanova and Albright in dual meets. An invitation meet held at West Chester brought the Watersmen into competition with Osteopathy, Penn Military College, and LaSalle. The final result was another victory for the Teachers. Two of the most difficult meets of the season were with Delaware University and Washington College. Neither team was defeated until it met West Chester. The Purple and Gold cindermen kept their winning streak intact by nosing out both of these teams.

The State Teachers College Championships were held at the William Penn High School in Harrisburg. West Chester came through with flying colors. Twenty-four places were taken by Coach Waters' proteges; sixteen of these were medal winners. It was the fifth consecutive year that the West Chester team has won this title. It gave this institution permanent possession of the Shenk and Tittle trophy.

This year the schedule has been rearranged, and although many of the opponents faced last season again appear in the schedule, the Susquehanna relays have been added. This is a step in an advance toward greater heights. The team is expecting to make a fine showing in this meet which will bring it into competition with the leading colleges of the East. Under the captaincy of John Steckbeck the Purple and Gold track and fieldmen are aiming toward another undefeated season and another State Teachers College Championship. Villanova, Albright, Washington College, and Delaware University are the teams appearing on the schedule.

There are a good number of promising candidates for all varsity berths. Eight Senior lettermen are spending their last season in competition. In addition there are other Seniors as well as underclassmen making strong bids for positions on the team.

CHARLES CONARD: "Chic" picked the higher things of life and devoted himself to pole vaulting. Won first place in the State Teachers College championship meet last spring and is seeking higher levels this year.

CAPTAIN JOHN STECKBECK: A record holder for three years. "Johnny" throws the javelin one hundred eighty-two feet, five inches. A real fieldman and an outstanding leader.

This is the first year West Chester has had an organized Freshman track team. Much interest has been shown by the Freshmen of the college. They have turned out in large numbers for this sport. It is to be another of Coach Waters' duties to develop the yearling track men into champions for later varsity membership.

Among the best known prospects for the team is James Ward. "Jimmy" comes from Altoona High School with a very commendable record as a dash man. Will, Eubank, Smedley, and Lawson are others who will doubtless aid in scoring points for the Freshmen.

Although the schedule is not a large one, the Purple and Gold men will find difficult opposition when they meet the University of Pennsylvania Freshmen and the yearlings from Temple. These teams have set up enviable records in the past and are not likely to be easy marks for the West Chester men.

On April twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth the first year men entered in the Penn Relays. Here Coach Waters had his first opportunity to get a really good glimpse of the potentialities of the squad.

INTRAMURAL BASKETBALL CHAMPIONS

INTRAMURAL BASKETBALL CHAMPIONS
 M. Robinson, Lunger, Rees, Groff.
 German, Singer, Welch, Dannon.

The "Senior Champions" won the intramural title by winning thirteen games without a defeat from a group of fighting opponents. One explanation of this remarkable record was the fact that four of the "Champions" were among the leading scorers of the league. These were Glen Lunger, James German, James Welch, and Francis Dannon. Lunger led the league in scoring throughout the season. "Bob" Rees, "Jimmy" Singer, and Frank Groff contributed much to the defensive work of the team.

Much of the credit for the team's success goes to Millard Robinson, who coached the players throughout the past two seasons. An interesting fact about this team is that its members have played together for four years—the first two years as members of the Purple and Gold Junior Varsity. This court team has won the Intramural Championship for two successive years; in this time it lost only one game.

The committee taking charge of the intramural program was composed of Glenn Lunger, Robert Rees, and Earl Fuoss as Senior representatives, and Clevio Rogo and Stanley Krupnik as Junior members. This program offered activity to almost a hundred men on Saturday afternoons during the season. Twelve teams entered the circuit at the beginning of the season. Although only eight of these teams managed to finish their schedules, the competition was keen throughout.

There was a question whether or not there was to be a gym team at West Chester this year, but Coach Waters uncovered some talent from the physical education classes and turned it into an excellent athletic group to give exhibitions at various schools as well as in the Ehinger Gymnasium.

Captain "Chic" Conard was among the outstanding men on the team. His specialties were the rings, parallel bars, and the horse. "Chic" also had the honor of holding the office of president of the Olympic Club. Other Senior members of the team were James Singer, who performed on the rings and danced; George McGinness, a specialist on the parallel bars; John Steckbeck, dancing and clowning; Edward Topping, mats and horse; Bill Elrick, mats; Ralph Fuoss, mats; and "Zac" Savage, parallel bars.

The team made several trips, including journeys to Prospect Park High School, New Holland, and Mahanoy City, and gave fine exhibitions at these schools.

The Olympic Club presented "Chet" Phillips and "Joe" Hewlett of Temple University as added attractions at its spring exhibition. The annual trip to Philadelphia to witness the National Amateur Athletic Union Championships was one of the rewards given the gym team for its splendid work and cooperation.

Senior members in the Olympic Club are Conard, Singer, Topping, Savage, W. Elrick and R. Fuoss. These members will be awarded gym team jackets at the close of the year.

For the third year the golf team is starting out to compile a record for itself. Last year the team showed marked improvement. As a result, when the season ended, the team found it had won one match, tied one, and lost two.

Haverford, Penn Military College, Swarthmore, and Villanova will furnish opposition for the Purple and Gold golfers this spring. Millard Robinson and Wynn Lewis are the seniors on the team. "Robbie" has played for three years and is captain for this season. George Shelley and Hugo Maiale are other upperclassmen who will be called upon to represent West Chester on the golf links.

Carmen Storti, a freshman, is expected to bolster the team this year. Carmen comes to West Chester from Bridgeport High School. He shoots consistently in the seventies and will make his presence felt before the season is over. Donald McPherson, another freshman, is also expected to assist the team in getting its share of victories.

Golf, along with swimming, is one of West Chester's newer sports. However, increased interest has been evident each year. In the afternoons the golfers may be seen practicing in the various corners of Wayne Field. Munroe MacLean, coach of the golfers, aids whenever possible and supervises practice on the nearby West Chester golf links.

PLAYTIME IN THE AFTERNOON

Spring brings renewed life to the women's athletic field.

WOMEN'S ATHLETICS

Although women do not win glory as football heroes and baseball stars, they are active in more fields of athletics than we usually imagine. On summer days the tennis courts are scenes of thrilling matches while the athletic fields are the meeting place of rival class hockey, baseball, and volley ball teams.

Not only are there splendid opportunities on campus for outdoor sports but girls can be seen entering the gyms at all times during the day, for there they play basketball, dance, and bowl. In recent years provision has been made for all students to participate in such activities as roller-skating, ping-pong, badminton, and shuffle board in the evenings. Girls walking rapidly to campus from town with wet hair on both chilly and balmy days signify that swimming is another activity included in West Chester's physical education course.

During week days we can see "health ed" women student teachers on the public playgrounds guiding children in their recess games and in the class rooms teaching the rules and stories of wholesome living.

Thus, it is the modern as well as the ancient demand for "a sound mind in a sound body" that has supplied the impetus to women's athletics and games at West Chester.

The Women's Athletic Association is the largest organization of its type on the campus at West Chester. The W. A. A. was originated in nineteen thirty through the efforts of Miss Myra Wade and has steadily gained in membership until at the present time it consists of one hundred seventy members. The Club has been ably directed by Miss Myra Wade and Miss Muriel Leach.

One of the main purposes of W. A. A. is to sponsor sports and activities which every girl of the college will enjoy. During the past year the following sports were capably directed by W. A. A.: hockey, tennis, archery, swimming, volley ball, basketball, hiking, tap and clog dancing, modern dancing, and various indoor activities, such as ping-pong, dart throwing, bowling, shuffle board, hand tennis, and handball. Tennis, archery, volley ball, hockey, and basketball tournaments are sponsored during their respective seasons. In addition to these activities, W. A. A. offers to all college students recreational games, roller skating, and dancing on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday nights of each week.

Another purpose of the association is to provide interesting and varied entertainment at the club meetings which are held once a month. The various holidays are appropriately celebrated, and problems of interest to the sports-loving girl are brought before the club.

The organization of the club consists of a president, vice-president, treasurer, and secretary with a manager for each of the various sports; each of the above serves as a member of the executive council, which has full charge of the organization. W. A. A. is a member of the Women's Division of the National Amateur Athletic Federation.

The aim of the association has been strictly observed since its founding: "A sport for every girl, and every girl a true sportswoman."

When the W. A. A. was first organized seven years ago, its membership consisted of twenty-five girls. These young women formed the Association as a result of a meeting of all the college girls interested in sports and recreational activities.

Since it was founded, the Women's Athletic Association has grown in membership from the original twenty-five to one hundred seventy at present. This group is directly controlled by the W. A. A. Council composed of the officers, ten managers of the various sports, Miss Wade, and Miss Leach.

The sports represented by managers in the Council are hockey, tennis, archery, swimming, volley ball, basketball, dancing, and hiking. Publicity managers and managers of winter sports complete the group. These individuals sponsor and plan the various activities carried on throughout the year by the W. A. A.

All girls in the college are permitted and urged to participate in the club regardless of membership. However, to receive extra-curricular credit it is necessary to belong to the organization. Awards are made to women students fulfilling certain requirements. Anyone earning one thousand points in four years is entitled to an attractive blazer. These points are based on participation in W. A. A. activities. Individuals getting eight hundred points in four years receive a pin. A letter is given to all girls on a championship team in two sports; numerals are given for playing on a championship team once.

The W. A. A. Council furthers the purpose of the entire W. A. A. organization. It aids in providing social and physical activities for all women students at West Chester.

The women's sport season at West Chester opened in the fall with a series of hockey games in the form of a consolation tournament. Both academic and health education teams competed in the scramble for a title that was not decided until the final contest.

The games were played with an unusual amount of spirit that made them much more interesting than they otherwise would have been. The contests between the Sophomore and Junior health education teams were the most strenuously fought, and it was only the extra speed of the Sophomores that enabled them to outplay and defeat the Juniors. The Sophomores won the title for the second successive year. They are to be congratulated on their display of good hockey during the two seasons.

The Senior-Junior health education game resulted in a tie after a fast and well-played game; this made necessary a second game between the two teams. This contest was almost equal to the final game in the amount of tension which was present throughout the period of play. It resulted in a close victory for the Juniors.

An unusual feature of the hockey season this year was the series of matches played between the men and women of the Senior health education group. The stick work of the men greatly resembled golf, baseball, and lacrosse, but the friendly spirit of good sportsmanship that dominated the games added much to the fun and zest of the contests.

ACADEMIC BASKETBALL CHAMPIONS

ACADEMIC BASKETBALL CHAMPIONS
Tatum, Nesbit, Young, Griscom, Heater, Emmert, Weiler.

The basketball tournament for academic women was played separately from that of the health education teams for the second successive year. Four teams comprised the league. Each one of these outfits met all the others once in order to determine the championship.

This year the general ability of the teams was far above that of other years. The accuracy, technique, and general playing were much improved. This made the games more enjoyable for both players and spectators.

→ The Junioraxes captured the title by going through their season undefeated. They gained victories over the Saultitorians, Lutzenjammer Kids, and Lynchers.

The Junior health education men, following the example of the Senior men, challenged the Junioraxe team to a game at the end of the season. The challenge was accepted and a game ensued that found the men again victorious over the women. The same spirit of fun and good sportsmanship was present at this game that had been noticed at all of the other contests between the men and the women of the college.

All of the women's sports and activities are sponsored by the Women's Athletic Association under the direct control of the Athletic Council. The season of 1935-1936 has been one of the most successful that the club has had since its organization. Each year sports and other physical activities have been improved and better organized by the work of the W. A. A.

Showing the same team play and cooperation that gained them the hockey championship, the Sophomore health education girls crushed each of the other three class teams to win their division of the women's fall basketball tournament. The Sophomores met bitter resistance from the Freshmen, Juniors, and Seniors but managed to weather all storms to gain the crown.

The season opened with the Seniors facing the Junior health education team. Battling for every point, the Seniors managed to eke out a close 25-24 victory. The Sophomores next moved into the picture by defeating both the Junior, Freshmen, and Seniors successively. Large crowds witnessed every contest and added to the tension that prevailed throughout all the contests.

At the close of the tournament the Senior health education men challenged the Senior girls to a trio of games. The girls, determined to avenge the defeat the men had handed them in hockey, made valiant efforts to attain victory. However, once again the superior speed and strength of the men enabled them to emerge the winners in keenly fought contests. Both coaching and officiating of the classes and basketball games were again done by Miss Schaub, Miss Aldworth, Miss Leach, and the Junior health education women. The tournament was a success in all its features. Basketball has been one of the most popular of the women's sports in the past few years and interest has been increasing rapidly.

The Valkyrie Club is a distinctive body in that it is primarily a dance club. The membership consists of girls from the Sophomore, Junior, and Senior classes of the Health Education Department who are interested in the modern dance. Miss Anne Schaub has been the faculty adviser, and it has been due largely to her untiring efforts and interest that the club has attained the degree of success that it has.

This year Valkyrie has sponsored several activities. As has been the custom in the past few years, the club held modern dancing classes two hours each week and also gave a dance recital. Besides these two main features, the club sponsored the sale of Christmas Seals on the campus and provided a dance demonstration for the Health and Physical Education convention that was held here. The club also provides for other interests in the sport field through trips into Philadelphia to see ice hockey games and interpretations of the rules of hockey and basketball.

Valkyrie has done much for its members in helping them to get better acquainted with students having the same interests and in providing an activity, "modern dancing", that would otherwise probably not be offered on the campus.

THE QUAD IN ALL ITS GLORY

The Quad is never lonely, for here students joke and argue, laugh and worry together.

FEATURES

As we passed through four years of college life, hurdling the barriers before us with varied success, we have shared innumerable experiences of every type. When Freshmen, we viewed most of them through wide-open, serious eyes. Then we became Sophomores and prided ourselves on our non-chalant acceptance of life as a whole. Our Junior year found us in a jovial mood, eager to undertake any adventure promising enjoyment of a profitable type. Finally, we became Seniors, and college life reached its peak of happiness and attainment for us, despite the fact that it was drawing to a close.

Many of these experiences are only a hazy background in our minds, while others hold a distinct place in our thoughts. The latter undoubtedly should be preserved here where we may turn to them at any time. Thus they will provide a permanent treasure chest of memories, some humorous—some serious, that will enable us to live again our college years as we take a rapid retrospective glance. Once again we may be frightened Freshmen, sophisticated Sophomores, jovial Juniors, or successful Seniors—just as we prefer.

Together we have traveled over the campus seeing every building and its part in college life. We have paused to get the history of our college and to see the faculty members who have given their time to the teaching profession. Then we met the graduating class—those who are realizing for the first time the significance of the word "Commencement". We have seen the fine spirit of the underclassmen. The innumerable extra-curricular groups attracted our attention, and we hurried on to the many athletic activities. In the past few pages are pictured experiences which will long hold a cherished place in our memories.

From the air we get this view of the campus which paints a comprehensive picture that will live indelibly in our thoughts of West Chester.

WHERE A MAN'S A MAN

Wayne Hall serves as a resting place, a dressing room, a recreation center, and as a study hall for West Chester's male youth.

ADVERTISING

Many readers completely overlook the section of a college yearbook which is devoted to the advertisers and patrons. They forget that much of any success that is gained has been made possible by the support of those who aid us here. To the latter is due our most sincere appreciation for their help and our greater cognizance of the important part they have played in our Annual.

Some of these friends have been with us ever since the first Serpentine was published twenty-five years ago; others have joined our ranks in comparatively recent years; and a few more names are appearing in this section for the first time. The Serpentine has come to mean much to many of them. They are loyal—extremely so. One need talk only a few minutes to any of the individuals represented to discover this.

The Serpentine staff is proud to have such persons as backers. It is they who help assure a year-by-year improvement in the quality of every yearbook published at West Chester.

IN APPRECIATION

The Senior Class wishes to express the sincere regret felt by faculty and students alike when it became known that Miss Isadore E. Cropsey, the senior member of the music faculty, had resigned.

Miss Cropsey came to the College, then the Normal School, in 1906 and for the past thirty years has served the school as a teacher of outstanding merit. A woman of fine musical training, endowed with a genuine taste for the best, she added to these qualities a rare teaching skill and an earnest desire to establish high musical standards at West Chester. In this aim she has not been disappointed, and hosts of successful graduates declare that in the development of their appreciation and skill Miss Cropsey played no small part.

Although we regret Miss Cropsey's going, we congratulate her on the fine reputation as teacher and musician which she has built up for herself, and we wish for her many happy years relieved from the burden of teaching, which she has so gallantly born, and made bright by the affectionate remembrance of a host of devoted students and friends.

The members of the Serpentine Staff regret very much that they did not know of Miss Cropsey's resignation until it was too late to place the acknowledgment of her services to the College in the first part of the book.

MISS ISADORE E. CROPSEY

Miss Isadore E. Cropsey was born in Oswego, New York. Here she received her elementary and high school training. After graduation Miss Cropsey enrolled in the Leefson-Hille Conservatory of Music in Philadelphia, where she studied under Mauritz Leefson. Upon the completion of her work at this conservatory she received a diploma and a certificate for teaching. She also studied the Leschetizsky Method of Piano under Harold Nason in Philadelphia. Miss Cropsey has confined her teaching activities to music. Before coming to West Chester in 1906, Miss Cropsey taught at the Wilmington Conference Academy and at the Abington Friends School, Jenkintown, Pennsylvania.
